Credit: Ezra Group A public-private partnership in South Sudan has launched the country's first major solar power plant and Battery Energy Storage System (BESS) in the capital Juba, where it is expected to provide electricity to thousands of homes. Can solar power improve South Sudan's Energy Infrastructure?Future Implications: Integrating solar and storage solutions could stabilize South Sudan's energy infrastructure, creating a model for renewable energy adoption in other energy-deprived regions. South Sudan launches solar-BESS project to expand grid access, replacing diesel generators and boosting energy for underserved regions. Can solar power solve energy poverty in South Sudan?Because South Sudan is still in the beginning stages of their infrastructural development, there is a rare opportunity to move forward and address the issue of energy poverty by building sustainable models of electrification, like solar power, without having to dismantle an already existing energy foundation. Does South Sudan have a solar-plus-battery storage project?Key Figures & Findings: South Sudan is embarking on a significant renewable energy transformation, with a new solar-plus-battery storage (BESS) project to address the country's alarmingly low energy access. How does South Sudan produce energy?Most of the country's current energy production comes from generators that burn imported diesel, a costly method both economically and environmentally. According to the World Bank, only 8.4% of the population had reliable access to power and electricity in , leaving the door wide open to produce much-needed renewable energy in South Sudan. Why is South Sudan's solar-Bess project important?With only 7% of the population currently connected to the grid, this project is crucial to delivering sustainable and affordable energy solutions to millions. Insights: South Sudan's solar-BESS project is designed to address its status as one of the least electrified countries globally.
